AWARDS & ACCOLADES

2024 ~ 92 Points. DOUBLE GOLD "Bright, translucent red. Initially, aromas of red stone fruit such as cherries and sour cherries are perceived. Then, subtle, very elegant spiced notes. On the palate, this is a young, lively wine with tannins that are well balanced with the acidity." - Gilbert & Gaillard International Challenge 2025

2024 ~ 90 Points. "Fresh, dependable, classic.This dependable and delicious Chilean Pinot from the cool, fog-infused Leyda Valley expresses itself with strawberry and sweet red cherry, cocoa, brown spices, vanilla, tealeaf and violets. It's a pretty wine, supple and silky with flavours of spice and tea and tangy red fruits, which lead to a leathery finish.You can't go wrong with this one." - Daenna Van Mulligen - WineScores.ca, May/2026

2024 ~ 90 Points. "Fruit-expressive pinot with mossy raspberries and some white pepper. Fresh, juicy and still pretty transparent despite the fruitiness, with a light- to medium-bodied profile and soft tannins." - Zekun Shuai - James Suckling, Oct/2026

2024 ~ "... while it is grown in the Leyda Valley, well regarded for its cool climate sauvignon blanc, this version of pinot noir is perfectly ripe. The nose offers a blend of damp earth and forest floor, complemented by fresh, ripe raspberries. The palate begins with fresh, ripe raspberry, has a smooth texture, and frankly gives you all it can for the price. Duck pizza could be a fine match." - Anthony Gismondi - Gismondi on Wine, Feb/2026

2023 ~ 91 Points. "A nose full of red fruits, raspberry, blackberry, and a light earthy note. Medium-bodied, with a herbal note and a lovely peppery note on the midpalate that enhances the wine. A toasted oak note appears on the finish." - Alistair Cooper MW, Catad'Or World Wine Awards 2024

2023 ~ 90 Points. - Club de Amantes del Vino Guía Mesa de Cata, 2025

2023 ~ 90 Points. JUDGES' SELECTION - Alberta Beverage Awards 2026

2023 ~ "The Leyda Valley is well regarded for its cool climate Sauvignon Blanc. However, its pinot noir has been steadily gaining recognition. This wine presents a nose of damp earth with hints of red berries. On the palate, it has a sour cherry entry that seemingly ripens through the finish, with a texture as plush as you can expect from a Leyda Valley pinot. Another clean, fresh vintage from Sibaris, clocking in at 13.5% and remaining a substantial value..." - Anthony Gismondi - Gismondi on Wine, Apr/2025

2023 ~ "Pinot Noir has become a global grape star, though it does tend to fair best in cooler vineyard climates. But even in a country known for more warmer growing conditions, you’ll find pockets of Pinot. Take Chile, for example. One of the country’s oldest wineries, Undurraga, headed to the Pacific-influenced Leyda Valley to plant Pinot Noir vineyards. Morning fog and cool sea breezes help moderate temperatures, and the resulting ruby-hued Pinot Noir brings ample aromas of berries, herbs, and toasty oak. This lively, good value red is juicy and fruit-forward, with oak influence and a lick of spice building to a lengthy, lingering finish."B+.Pair with grilled chicken or pork. - James Nevison, The Province, Aug/2025

OTHER INFO

World's Most Admired Wine Brands 2013; #47 ranked worldwide and #5 in South America. (Drinks Int'l Magazine)
100% Pinot Noir made from select grapes grown in estate vineyards. After controlled fermentation, the wine continued extended skin contact for an additional six days to maximize aromatics and colour. It was then carefully aged in oak barriques. Don Francisco Undurraga was among Chile's winemaking pioneers. In 1885, he personally brought vines from France and Germany to plant on his estate 34 kilometers from Santiago, in the heart of the Maipo Valley. Traces of the original estate still exist today on the Maipo property. The winery has been a pioneer in exploring the emergent Chilean valleys of Colchagua and Leyda, rigorously studying the different types of soils, climates, and matching them to the physiological behavior of the varieties.
